

Development of labour law in Kosovo

PhD Muhamet Binaku
AAB College

Abstract

The right to work is one of the most important rights, economic and social human rights and fundamental principle of labor legislation. Work is one of the challenges of Life, through which one humans passes during the whole life only to provide existence for themselves and their families. The right to work is exceptional importance for every individual, as such represents a precondition and guarantee freedom, the realization of personality development. People without access to jobs, are dependent on social assistance or no perspective. In the development of labor law there is a large number of constitutions that guarantee everyone has the right of respect for his personality at work, conditions, safe and healthy at work, protection needed in daily and weekly work, vacation pay annual job fair compensation, and legal protection in case of termination of employment. These rights are fundamental and nobody can avoid. Employment is the challenge of each national ligislation to provide a dignified life for citizens and society in general.

Keywords: East, difficulties, challenges, employment, responsibility.

Full Text: PDF

This work is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution 3.0 License.

European Journal of Economics, Law and Social Sciences ISSN 2519-1284 (print) ISSN
2510-0429 (online)

Copyright © IIPCCCL-International Institute for Private, Commercial and Competition law