

Research Article

© 2023 Migena Sejdini and Marsela Likaj

This is an open access article licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial 4.0 International License (<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc/4.0/>)

The use of texts in foreign language teaching

Dr. Migena Sejdini

Faculty of Foreign Languages, University of Tirana

Dr. Marsela Likaj

Faculty of Foreign Languages, University of Tirana

DOI: <https://doi.org/10.2478/ejels-2023-0004>

Abstract

No matter how little experience in a profession, every foreign language teacher understands that effective teaching can be based on more than just using the selected book, regardless of the variety of topics it contains. Foreign language teaching is a process that involves the use of supplementary materials from its initial steps. These materials are developed, processed, and adapted as complementary resources to the textbook or even as substitutes for specific elements, especially when they do not meet the needs and requirements of students.

The majority of teaching materials include the texts used in foreign language instruction. Therefore, using texts as instructional materials and utilising them in the teaching process constitute the focus of this paper.

Keywords: Foreign language, texts, teaching.

Full Text: PDF

This work is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 License.

European Journal of Economics, Law and Social Sciences ISSN 2519-1284 (print) ISSN

2510-0429 (online)

Copyright © IIPCCL-International Institute for Private, Commercial and Competition law